NAME _____ DATE _____

HIRING INFORMATION TRACKING (H.I.T.) NUMBER _____

1. Your best friend has just shared a secret that could make a large amount of money if marketed properly. Do you:
 - a. suggest to your friend that he could patent that and recommend a good patent lawyer?
 - b. offer to be your friend's business partner in a new joint venture?
 - c. quietly patent it yourself then sue your friend for royalties?
 - d. arrange for your mafia friends to kill him and dump his body into a concrete foundation, then hunt down and destroy any and all your friend's associates until the secret is entirely yours, then use it as the core to your new plans to take over the world?

2. A fire has broken out in a company facility. Do you:
 - a. evacuate the building in an orderly fashion, ensuring the fire alarm has been pulled?
 - b. fight the fire yourself, hoping to save lives and property?
 - c. contact your manager to arrange a transfer to a safer facility?
 - d. a then c?
 - e. contact the company legal department so they can immediately contain the financial impact and negative publicity that would result by allowing the entire facility to burn to the ground, transferring the lease to a shell corporation and finally pretending it never existed in the first place?

3. You've been ordered to guard a specific room, allowing nobody to enter. A coworker approaches that you know from chatting about race cars while waiting to pay for your morning coffee in the cafeteria, and offers you a little money for a peek into the room. Do you:
 - a. report it to your manager immediately?
 - b. beat him with your club?
 - c. b then a?
 - d. accept the money and pocket it?
 - e. d then b then a?
 - f. extract a much larger sum of money by threatening the person with your recording of this conversation, then force him to make regular payments to your anonymous bank account in the Caymans?

4. You've been fired from your position for what you judge to be discriminatory reasons. Do you:
 - a. lodge a formal complaint with the company legal department?
 - b. contact your provincial attorney general to lodge a complaint?
 - c. arrange a contract killing on your boss by rogue elements of the Provincial Civil Liberties Union?

5. Your worst enemy gets hired at the office. Do you:
- play pop music at him over the intercom in an attempt to drive him off with inanity?
 - let bygones be bygones and try to start over?
 - arrange a series of practical jokes of increasingly annoying items?
 - smile at him?
 - d, constantly, in an attempt to drive him insane from worrying over why you keep smiling at him and wondering what you have up your sleeve until he can't sleep at night for fear you'll strike him when he isn't watching with some overly elaborate revenge plot?
6. You have stumbled across a large sum of money in an unmarked bag. Do you:
- turn it in to the police?
 - put the money into a trust fund, then use the interest to engage in philanthropic activities?
 - blow it all on Skittles and chocolate syrup?
 - make a token effort to find the owner, then use the money to pay off your gambling debts?
 - use the money to incur more gambling debts?
 - what is it with you and gambling? Join gamblers anonymous, and blow the wad on expensive rehab, already!
7. You have mere seconds to respond to an emergency. Do you:
- dither until someone else takes charge?
 - dither until the danger consumes you and everyone near you in fiery, flaming death?
 - dither until your manager shows up and dump it on him so he makes all the decisions?
 - dither until your subordinate shows up and dump it on him so he takes all the blame?
 - turn off Quake and get back to your real work, you lazy bum?
8. You've received information accidentally that was supposed to be addressed to someone with a similar name in which secret corporate plans are revealed that could have wide-spread impact on the entire company. Do you:
- engage the corporate data security protocols and contact the legal department?
 - quietly delete the email, avoiding making waves?
 - hand-deliver a printed copy of the email to the actual recipient, explaining what happened?
 - call your stock broker and order him to short as much of your stock as he can, expecting the information to cause the stock to tank horribly, and thus reap huge windfall profits?
9. A local celebrity stops by the office for a photo op with your CEO. Do you:
- stop in during your break in hopes of seeing the celebrity?
 - arrange for someone else to cover your work for a few hours so you can camp out at the CEO's office?
 - sneak behind the pair during the photo shoot and put rabbit ears on the CEO?
 - decide the celebrity is just another overpaid jerk and play solitaire in spite?
10. You're outside the local museum when a robber comes out the door with a fortune in objects d'art. Do you:
- attempt to stop the robber?
 - call for police and point them in the direction the robber went?
 - step aside and stay out of it, knowing it would result in a huge amount of paperwork?
 - start the engine, since you're the getaway driver?
 - change into your super-hero persona and capture the robber with your amazing powers?
